ALVA.

AMONG THE RAILROADS.

Conductor H. K. Halladay, of the O. H. & D., is visiting his brother in Sidney.

Carpenter John Lytle, of the L. E. & W. shops, has returned to work after an illness.

The C. & E. pay car passed through here enroute to Marion yesterday afternoon.

mortgage bonds are taking steps to protect their interests in case the plan projected by the reorganization committee should prove unsatisfactory to them.

The Ohio Falls car works, at Jeffersonville, are now building two hundred cars for the Denver & Rio Grande, turning out eight cars per day. The passenger department of the works is idle.

When the Columbus & Hocking Valley opens its Wellston & Jackson line the citizens of Jackson will give a banquet to the officials of the road, at which it is expected four hundred persons will be present.

Roads in the Western Passenger association will participate in excursions to be run to Honolulu Feb. 10 and March 5, next, the rate for which will be $215, including state-room and meals during the ocean part of the journey.

Since the wreck at Milton, the result of the switch having been tampered with, the O. H. & D. is equipping all switches on the road with new and different locks. Trainmen are surrendering their old keys and being supplied with new ones.

Some of the roads doing business between Chicago and St. Paul are working through Chicago and St. Paul scalpers, and the existence of the Western Passenger association is again threatened. Scalpers at both points are offering lower rates, paring rates to parties of less than ten, which is one of the disturbing features.

OIL AND GAS.

Dallier & Hall's well on the Jones farm will be in about ten days.

The production of the Brennan well is increasing. It is now doing about 10 barrels per day.

J. O. Hoover is ready to commence drilling on the W. W. Williams farm, a mile and a half east of Gomer.

The Rockland Oil company has timber on the ground for a well on the Henry Irwin farm, a mile east and half a mile south of the Williams well.

The Williams well pumped forty-five barrels the first twenty-four hours, but it is too soon to tell what it will settle down to. The well is two miles from the Crites well, which came in with a flow several weeks ago.

E. V. Wyssbrood has just drilled in a big well on a farm he owns near the northeast corner of Owens township. It flowed clear over the derrick and is reported to be a dry well. It is isolated from any other wells, but lies in the direction of the Canebrake field.—Bluffton News.

The Manhattan Oil Co. are running a telephone line through this place. A local office will be established here and will be a great convenience to the public, as we are told it will be a toll line. The line will go to all parts of the Ohio and Indiana oil fields. Beaverdam, Mt. Cory and Dawson will also have offices.—Bluffton News.

Alfonso & McCormack completed their No. 3 on the George Hill farm, near Elgin, the other day and it made two hundred and seventy-five barrels the first twenty-four hours. It was shot, and Mr. Alfonso says it will probably make a twenty-barrel well. The well is situated near a church property, and the members are trying to get authority to lease the property for all purposes.

GET FLESH.

Get Strength, Vigor, Clear Complexion and Good Digestion, not by Patent Medicine,

BUT IN NATURE'S OWN WAY.

Any honest physician will tell you that there is but one way to get increased flesh; all the patent medicines and cod liver oils to the contrary notwithstanding.

Nature has but one way to increase flesh, strength and vigor, mind and body, and that is through the stomach by wholesome food, well digested. There is no reason, or common sense, in any other method whatever.

People are this, run down, nervous, pale, and shaky in their nerves, simply because their stomachs are weak.

They may not think they have dyspepsia but the fact remains that they do not eat enough food, or what they eat is not quickly and properly digested, and it should be.

Dr. Harbans says the reason is because the stomach lacks certain digestive acids and peptones, and deficient secretion of gastric juice.

Nature's remedy in such cases is to supply what the weak stomach lacks. There are several good preparations which will do this, but none so readily as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which are designed especially for all stomach troubles, and which cure all digestive weakness on the common sense plan of furnishing the digestive principles which the stomach lacks.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give perfect digestion. First effect is to increase the appetite and increased vigor, added flesh, pure blood, and strength of nerve and muscle is the perfectly natural result.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest tonic known and will cure any form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach. May be found at druggists at 50 cents for full sized package or direct by mail from Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

NEW BUILDINGS

Discussed by the Board of Another Ward Building will be the improvements to be made Business the Board Transacted

Last Night.

The regular meeting of the of Education was held last night with Messrs. Jones, Prophet, nean and Mrs. Viery present.
Bills aggregating $400 were voted and allowed, and the sale January were granted.

An application made by T. C.
Cuskey was read, and upon was received and filed.

Messrs. Galatran, Proprietor Supt. Miller, the committee visited and inspected new buildings in several Indiana municipalities.

An informal report, the stance of which appeared in Times-Democrat several days ago, was read.

A brief discussion was held to the proposed buildings here and no unanimous in favor of a new ward building.

The building to be built in the seventh ward, between the present building and the Lima College building, was discussed.

The present building, which though containing sixteen rooms, including the annex, is overcrowded and another building to be built in the city would be a great help.

Ed Titus returned last night from Marysville where he accompanied Chas. Gottfried, who entered the Keely Institute. Gottfried grew worse before Marysville was reached but did not harm himself.

GOOD WORK

Accomplished at Deshlerby Day Geo. Peck, of this City.

Detective George Peck, of the H. & D., has just completed a piece of work at Deshler, and as suit of his horse three young men that place will probably land in penitentiary.

A few nights before Christmas car on the H. & D. at Deshler, broken into and some of the constituents of the board who were on Christmas eve a car on the H. & D. was broken open.

A lot of slot machines, a keboard, two hats and a lot of whiskey and fine tobacco were stolen.

Detective Peck went to work the case and a few days ago H.
Zimmerman, Joe Pratt and H.
Courtney, of Deshler, were over to the grand jury at Napoleone on charges of grand larceny.

On account of former experience the authorities at Deshler, Mr. Peck refused to trust the cases to private trials there, but took them to Napoleon, where he recently placed obstructions upon the O. & D. track at the latter place.

Detective Peck also a most of the stolen property had been buried in sawdust mill.

PEACH YELLOW.

An Incurable Disease Which is Easily Communicated from Tree to Tree.

In a bulletin from the New York New York Cornell station Professor L. E. Bailey says: "The yellow is said to be an incurable disease, attacking peach trees of all ages and conditions, which have a tendency to be fatal. It attacks apricots, almonds and Japanese plums.
It may be communicated from tree to tree, but the means of communication are not known. Fertilization of the soil, it is believed, will neither cure nor check the spread of the disease." The author in the summary characterizes the disease as follows:

The one unmistakable symptom of yellow is the red spotted character of the fruit. The flesh is commonly marked by red lines or splashes beneath the spots.
These patches ripen prematurely, and in the second year they are smaller than the normal fruit. The second symptom to appear, or the first in trees not in fruit, is the "tip" growth. This is a short growth starting from the upper or terminal buds, usually late in the season, and is characterized by narrow, stiff, yellowish, small leaves which stand at nearly right angles to the shoot.

The third mark is the pushing out of slender, stiff, yellowish shoots from the body of the tree or the sides of the large limbs. These symptoms are frequently visible absent in this state throughout the entire course of the disease. In its final stage the growth of the shoot and the slender growth of all new wood, small, narrow, yellow or reddish foliage and occasionally by a great profusion of slender and branchy growths in the center of the tree. As a rule the tree dies in five or six years from the first visible attack.

The only remedy offered is the extermination of all affected trees, but this will only keep the disease in check.
Peach yellow is readily communicated to nursery stock by affected buds, even though the buds may be from trees which do not show any signs of the disease. Pits from affected trees may also be expected to propagate the disease.

The Connecticut law relating to peach yellow is quoted, and it is recommended that the provisions of these laws be incorporated in the New York law.
The author recommends that public sentiment be aroused in favor of the law, as it will be powerless to prevent the spread of the disease by the sale of lawless nursery stock.

Violates in Winter.

A lady correspondent of The Household writes as follows concerning violas:
"The single ones do not give us any and before the cold weather sets in, hardly in a cold climate, are only for house culture, but they are very easy to grow. Their blossoms are given them for a month or more in the spring, and again in the fall when the weather has grown quite cool.
They cannot last long, so they give us the best of the season. The same rule must be followed if one would be successful in their culture in the house.
Keep the plants as cool as possible without danger of freezing, giving plenty of water and sunshine, and there is no chance of failure. In that regard bloom all winter. On the other hand, keep them as warm as possible plants require, and there will be no flowers, and the red spiders will kill the leaves."

Grafting Grapevines.

We think the time will come when grafting of the Delaware will be more often grown on other stocks than their own. Part of the liability to mildew of the Delaware grape is due to its attempting to produce more fruit than its roots will furnish the necessary material for maturing. With a stronger stock, giving a more compact growth, greater supply of plant food, this tendency to multiply will disappear.—American Cultivator.

Showering Height of Trees.

Place a 10 foot pole upright against the foot of the tree, and then walk away from the tree to such a distance from it as may be convenient for the operation, and build a pulley rule upright in the ground at one's length, so that the rule (or any portion of it) shall coincide view with the pole against the tree.
Suppose that a inch on the rule hold out of one's length, just covers the pole. An inch will thus be 10 feet on the tree. Observe how many inches from the top, and measure on the rule to the top of the tree. Suppose that it requires 5 inches on the rule; then 50 feet is the height of the tree. If the work is properly done, the measurement used will vary a foot from the real height.

This method need not be smaller level.
All that is needed is that the two feet of the tree be both in view. If the measured is 10 inches on the rule, then the tree is 100 feet high. If 7 1/2 inches, the height is 75 feet.

Some allowance must be made, where the tree is tall and the distance from it is small, for the slight view, which if extreme would give a diminished measurement. It is therefore necessary to stand at a considerable distance from the tree, in making the observation. If it is tall, according to Country Gentleman, authority for the foregoing.

It is also tide in modern Rome just mark, leaving bare many things which have long been hidden by the flood of politics and social change.

After a period of great and disasmore upon the city—the race for im-scarce; dwellings are plentiful; the streets are quiet by day and night, and only those who still have something to lose or very modest hopes of gain take an interest in public affairs. One may dream again in Rome as one dreamed 30 years ago when all the clocks were set once a fortnight to follow the sun, when we used to ask at what time it would be noon at 16 or 17 or 18 o'clock, according to the time of year.—Marion Crawford in Century.

UNAPPRECIATED HONESTY.

Pride and Fall of the Man Who Doubted With the Postoffice.

You can't always tell about honesty. Sometimes you see a man making a great show of it just for the sake of the show, not for the sake of the honesty. The other day a man went to the postoffice and asked for two 5 cent stamps. He laid down his dime, took his five cent stamp, put them in a pocket case and went away. Three or four days afterward he had occasion to use one of them. Just as he was about to stick it on the letter he had written he noticed that it was a 5 cent stamp instead of a 5 cent.

"What do I care?" he said to himself. "If 5 cents will send the letter, I will."

Then it occurred to him that the clock who had sold the stamps was out 2 cents for the mistake.

"I can't help it," the buyer argued. "It wasn't my fault, and it's too far to go to the postoffice now for 2 cents. It's honest, of course, but it's only 2 cents. How it would paralyze the clock, though, to have come in and rectify his little mistake for Christmas sake. Probably he makes such mistakes frequently, and I'll bet mighty few men go back to make them right. It's easy enough to kick when the thing's against you, but this is different. Somebody ought to kick about these stamps anyway, hard and good, to somebody way up. They're just like the fives in size, shape and color. No wonder he made the mistake. By Jove, I'll go over and see him."

So the two stamp buyer put on his overcoat and hat and went out into the cold and tramped over to the postoffice to make a show of his honesty.

There was a long line of men waiting their turns to transact business at the stamp window. The honest man waited patiently and used several dollars' worth of time trying to give back 2 cents that didn't belong to him. At last he got his place at the window.

"I brought these two stamps here the other day," he began, "for 5 cent stamps."

Those in the waiting line began to crowd up to hear the kick, and the face of the stamp clerk took on an expression just a shade more tired than usual.

"But they're 5 cent stamps," went on the honest man, "and the clerk must be out 2 cents, so I want to give them back."

The stamp clerk opened his eyes a bit wider and stooped down to get a good look at the honest man through the little half window. A murmur of approval ran through the crowd.
The honest man smiled at with the consciousness of his own uprightness. The stamp clerk looked with his stamps and then said:

"You don't buy 'em of me," he said. "I can't take your 2 cents. I have to know him, though, if I should see him. I wasn't long enough at the window."

"Well," said the clerk very distinctly, "I can't take your 2 cents.
The other clerk has lost it, that's all. The government isn't out of anything, and I can't take it. I'll give you 5 cent stamps if you like," and he reached out for the 6 cents.

The honest man was the surprised one, so surprised that for a moment he couldn't think of anything to say.
Then he blurted out:

"Why—why can't you take 'em?" They're not mine. I paid for five and got six."

The clerk leaned forward and drawled out so that half the men in line could hear it:

"How do I know that you are not an inspector laying a trap to catch me?"

The honest man thrust his hands in his overcoat pockets and strode away with a muttered "Well, I'm d—!" and half a dozen of the men began to whistle "There Are Others."—New York Sun.

HAIL, THANKSGIVING

THE PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION AND HOW IT IS WRITTEN.

Washington issued the first Proclamation, Only General, However, Since Lincoln's Time.—The Ceremony in the State Department.—What the Proclamation Says.

A few days since the president issued through the press his annual Thanksgiving proclamation. The custom of issuing a national proclamation has been annual since Lincoln's time, though George Washington issued as early as 1789 a proclamation, which has served as a model for his successors.
The Revolutionary fathers believed that and particular reason for giving thanks, and they lost few opportunities of doing so. Thus in the continental congress there were resolutions passed setting aside days for acknowledging the kindness of Providence in giving victory to the Revolutionary forces. The chairmen of congress were the prime movers in this. But the thanks of the nation were given rather gradually afterward, and it was due to a Boston woman's efforts that President Lincoln made a habit of proclaiming a special day for giving thanks.

Since Lincoln's time the presidents have all issued Thanksgiving proclamations early in November. These proclamations are composed usually by the presidents themselves, and in most instances they are written by the president's own hand. From the White House they have gone to the state department, where they have been copied with exactness on that office's blue paper. The proclamation is never in-

One Way to Tell Time.

"What time is it?" I asked the janitor of a down town office building.

The old fellow reached into his vest pocket, pulled out a silver watch, and looked at it intently, and then taking a pencil from another pocket jotted something down on a bit of paper.
Next he reached into another pocket and pulled out a second watch, the companion of the first, looked at it, and again jotted something down on a bit of paper.
Then he began a little computation on his slip of paper, after which he announced:

"At the time you asked, sir, it was just 27 minutes past 3. That's exact."

"Much obliged," I said. "But will you kindly explain to me why you had to look at two watches and go through all that figuring before you could tell me?"

"Why, you see, sir," he replied, "this here watch that I carries in my vest is a mighty good watch, but it loses just ten minutes every day. This other watch that I carries in my pocket is a good one, but it gains ten minutes every day. So I first I looks at one, and then I looks at the other, and then I takes my pencil and figures out the average between the two. That way I gets the time exact, sir."—Buffalo Express.

KIDNAP.

An English journal prints the following: "A very disagreeable habit of the king of Portugal is that he kisses his made friends. The princes of our reigning house all do this, and of course it is common enough abroad; but, thank heaven, so far as my lady looking (no matter how rarely innocent) habit has over the world. In America the men shake hands and the women kiss one another and sometimes cry, for the American ladies are champion weepers. In France and in Italy even more the women weep, while the men kiss and hug one another almost as vigorously as if they were in a wedding march. An English woman shakes hands with a man of her acquaintance, while in Spain she always gives her hand to be kissed.
It makes the same sensation in Madrid for a man to take a woman's hand and shake it as it would in London for a foreigner to seize a lady's hand and kiss it."

A Trump's Trick.

"Say, partner, you from New York, ain't you?" I heard one tramp say to another the other day as they sat smuggling themselves on opposite sides of the path in Union square.

The weary gentleman addressed made an excessive effort to control the impression of a negative without being one in terms.

"Yes, yare," continued the first in an aggressively persistent tone of voice. "I've been watchin' yer, an' yer've been keepin' that foot of yers movin' all the time yer was sleepin', an' it's the only way yer can keep yer wits, the way yer can keep yer wits."

The first Thank-giving proclamation, that of President Washington, was issued in New York Oct. 3, 1789. President Washington issued his first proclamation on Nov. 23, 1789. There was no graph in his day to transmit the proclamation to the uttermost parts of the United States. It had to reach the interior by stage and carrier, and not all many of the people who had some reason to give thanks did not hear of the proclamation. It was not until the president's first Thanksgiving proclamation November was long past. The original of the Washington proclamation is in the hands of the Rev. J. W.
Wellman, who inherited it remotely from his great grandfather, William Ripley of Cornhill, N. H. It was unlike the proclamation of today. It was written in ink on a piece of parchment of the United States of America—A Proclamation."

DEAD TO RIGHTS

Detective George Peck Caught Two Car Thieves.

One of the Prisoners Gives Up the Entire Story After Arrests are Made. Nearly Two Hundred Pounds of Sugar Taken.

About 7:30 o'clock last evening, detective George Peck, of the C. H. & D., left the police station to make a round through the C. H. & D. yards in the neighborhood of the freight house. As he was quietly picking his way through the mud and darkness, just north of Market street, he noticed two men walking from a box car, on what is called the middle track, toward the stables at the rear of Sullivan's bottling works.

Each of the men were carrying a sack and the officer became suspicious and watched them. As they passed across the tracks in the glare of an electric light he recognized one of the men as Dave Mummaugh, who until recently was janitor at the city building. The other he was not certain about. The men carried the sacks into a buggy shed and after closing the door, walked away.

Detective Peck entered the barn and, lighting a match, discovered two cloth sacks and a paper flour sack filled with sugar and piled in one corner of the shed. Going to the nearest telephone, Peck summoned Lieutenant Thibault, and together they found that a box car on the middle track had been entered and a part of a barrel of sugar taken, the head of the barrel having been knocked in. The car was one shipped to the Moore Bros. Co. Part of its contents were hauled away yesterday and the car was left for the night, the door closed but not locked. A few minutes later Detective Peck again saw Mummaugh in the neighborhood of the stables and asked him if he had seen any one around the car during the evening.

Mummaugh replied that he had not, but that he knew that the car was one of the Moore Bros. Co. Part of its contents were hauled away yesterday and the car was left for the night, the door closed but not locked.
